New York Board of Trade Says Comprehensive Data Show Unmistakably That Nation Is Well on Recovery Road.

VAST CHANGE SEEN IN PAST 4 MONTHS

Board President Expresses Belief U.S. Is on Way to Greatest Period of Stabilized Prosperity.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(P)—American business has taken a decidedly upward trend, the New York board of trade reported today on the basis of a survey of conditions in 100 representative cities.

Chambers of Commerce, boards of trade and similar business organizations co-operated in completing the survey. Statistics, graphs and charts were produced to substantiate the assertion there were decisive gains in the survey. Statistics of the survey of were slow gains reported.

Far West Booms.

Although reports from the far west were incomplete, the board said indications were that industrial activity all along the Pacific coast was greatly increased. Small sections of South Dakota and Kansas reported wheat crops ruined by hot weather, drouth and grasshoppers.

Magnus said economic changes during the months of March, April, May and June were "of colossal proportions."

"This is all the more remarkable." he said, "cause it was not accompleted."

"This is all the more remarkable," he said, a cause it was not accompanied by the blare of drums nor the martial music that unifies a country during a war emergency. To have accomplished what was done in these four months is the greatest tribute to the clear thinking and forceful determination of the American people."

WASHINGTON, July 4.—(P)— Hugh S. Johnson sought today to hustle along the amendment of state laws which stand as barriers to the nation-wide application of the nation-recovery act. One state, Wisconsin, already has put such an amendment through its assembly, the national recovery ad-ministrator said, and two others, California and Ohio, have bills pend-

Johnson said the bills in most states usually declared it to be "the policy of this state to co-operate with and assist the national government in promoting rehabilitation of industry and in eliminating unfair competitive practices, and to that end to bring about a parity in the maximum hours of labor and minimum rates of pay and other conditions of employment and standards of fair competition" in intrastate as well as interstate

The administrators of the national recovery act, however, already have in their hands legal reins with which they can guide the new law past some state obstacles, Johnson indi-

"The national recovery administra tion," he said, referring to the trade association agreements under the new law, "is relying on court decisions which have held that transactions in national recovery act difficult, should be undertaken at once."

Johnson also urged that more in-dustries send representatives to the capital to be informed first hand and in detail of the methods by which the work code is being applied by the administration.

Time is being wasted, Johnson said by a number of industries that seek to draft their own codes through their own legal staffs. These frequently do not fit the ideas on which Presi-dent Roosevelt based his recovery plan, General Johnson said.

Such quotations as these could be made that would not only fill this column, but possibly an entire page, if all the accidents in Atlanta and Georgia that have been reported in newspapers were quoted during the past few years.

How many of the persons who were slain and maimed dreamed that disaster would single them out? How aster would single them out? How many had made adequate provision for protecting their homes in time of injury and for safeguarding the security of their families?

Are you yourself insured against the accident menace? It is your duty to protect your loved ones against its constant peril.

ONLY 87 CONVICTS NOW UNASSIGNED, JOHNS DECLARES

There are only 87 unassigned felony prisoners in Georgia and they probably will be assigned before the end of this week, G. A. Johns, vice chairman of the Georgia prison commission, said Tuesday.

"This is less than one unassigned felony convict to each county, so the jails are not full of state prisoners, awaiting disposal," Judge Johns said. "The prison situation in Georgia is good, the 521 convicts turned back to the commission by the highway department have been put back to work on the roads, and we expect to have not a single felony prisoner in a coun-ty jail after this week," he added. Misdemeanor prisoners are the wards of the county in which they are convicted.

Meanwhile, Judge Johns said a program now was being mapped out which was designed eventually to make the Tattnall county prison farm sup-ply all the food and feed supplies of prison camps throughout the state. The farm is now growing a crop of corn, potatoes, sorghum cane, peas and vegetables, and in addition is car-and vegetables, and in addition is carrying on turpentine operations. There are 400 to 500 acres in cultivation on the new farm, he said.

About 50 convicts are assigned there. Arrangements are being made to install a sawmill to cut timber, to provide shingles and lumber for the construction of additions to the prison farm, which has now only three temporary buildings.

Watch for the appearance of toadlings in your gardens. You will find the mites by watching minute pebbles or large seed, and when they hop away you will know that they are toads. They are about a quarter of an inch long, and very dark brown, with a hint of the warts and spots of the adult markings. You will find that birds consider them a delicacy, so don't worry about being overrun with them next year.

MACHINES SEEN AS MAJOR THREAT TO EDUCATION

CHICAGO, July 4.—(P)—The manine age is jeopardizing American lucation and threatens to create a aste system, teachers were told to-ay by Charles H. Judde, University of Chicago educator.

More than a half million students,
Judd told the National Education Association, are graduated or drop out of American schools each year and seek work. For two decades, he said, industry and compares here failed. industry and commerce have failed to supply them with jobs.

He urged the teachers to resist attempts to "reduce education to the status of 1870" by showing the public that the fault lies in governmental machinery and "iniquitous taxing systems."

Other speakers seconded his suggestion that teachers step forward as political leaders and advocates of change. The Independence Day session was in keeping with the day. Speakers urged the teachers to add international affairs, taxation and economic problems to the usual courses and to speak their minds while teaching.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

SHHHHH! WASHINGTON, July 4 .- You must whisper and act mysteriously when you speak of "The X."

It is a secret council Mr. Farley has established to bring order out of the patronage chaos. It is the innermost circle of all inner administration circles. The rules are just like those of a

No one is supposed to know it exists. Those who do know, would not dare to tell the names of the council men. The secrecy is supposed to protect "The X" against congressional and other pressure. The name is appropriate because there are about ten members.

Also because the council is a publicly unknown quantity. If you do not tell anyone it would be safe to disclose to you that most of the councilmen are cabinet members. The postmaster general is Mr. X himself. In seats near by are Commerce Secretary Roper, Attorney-General Cummings and Secretary of Interior Ickes. Each government department is represented by someone, not necessarily a cabinet officer.

There is at least one outsider, an adviser whose name has rarely appeared in print. He is Emile Hurja, a political expert, who can most times be found behind the chair that Farley sits in.

IMPOLITIC This may sound like foolishness to you off-hand, but there is plenty of sense to it.

The administration has been hopping from jam to jam on this patronage business. Many close friends of the democratic family are bleating behind their hands about it.

For instance, Colonel Donald Sawyer started administrating his public works set-up as if he thought Mr. Roosevelt had been elected for life. He actually started picking engineers out of an engineering who's who. In some cases straws were drawn.

In a northwestern state the straw fell to an engineer for a group of electric power companies. It so happens that the new democratic senator from the state was elected on a platform built almost wholly on opposition to those same power companies. You can imagine what the senator said to Mr. Farley and Colonel Sawyer. It could hardly be printed.

STRATEGY A certain congressman had been working on the navy department for weeks to send a destroyer to the Fourth of July celebration in his home town. The chamber of commerce later joined in the move, writing a letter to the department. The department finally acceded. But in making the partment. The department finally acceded. announcement it addressed a letter to the chamber of commerce instead of the congressman. His name was not mentioned. He received no credit whatever. "The X" is supposed to avoid such difficulties. Hereafter each democratic congressman will be given public credit for what he gets out of the government. No appointments, even of engineers, will be made in his state without consultation. "The X" has a secret chart. It shows 70 congressional districts which the democrats might logically be expected to lose in the elections next year. These 70 are normal republican districts carried by the democrats in the landslide last year. The congressmen from these districts are being favored with appointments wherever possible. The far-sighted point is to build up a strong democratic organization in this territory so as to maintain democratic control in the next congress!

ADVERTISING There is a good reason why Otto Kahn and Prosecutor Pecora were shown to be laughing across the committee table in those pictures recently released. Pecora told one off the record on the international banker.

He said he had heard Kahn was once walking on the lower East Side and saw a sign over the store of a Jewish clothing merchant. It read: "Nathan Kahn, Cousin of Otto Kahn." The sign burned Kahn up. He went to his lawyer and said:

"Make that merchant take the sign down. You can give him up to $5,000 to keep him quiet, but make him take it down." A few weeks later Kahn was walking in the same neighborhood and looked to see if the sign had been removed. It had, In its place was one reading:

"Nathan Kahn, Formerly Cousin of Otto Kahn." Refusing to affirm or deny the yarn, Kahn told another one himself. He said he made a speech in England after the war. He admitted that he spoke in his usually strong German accent, but was amazed to find the English newspapers the next day stating his speech had been delivered in a "French-Canadian" accent. It seems the papers were reluctant to call it German.

The best story on Kahn is the one about his faux pas on bonds While testifying he started philosophizing about bonds. He grew very eloquent. He likened a railroad bond to "a tender plant. "It must be nurtured," he said. "It must be watched."

POLITICS The root of the Snell-Farley budget debate is in the public debt. It increased about three billions last year. It will increase about the same this fiscal year. That is the extent of actual inflation so far. Also the extent to which the budget is being winked at.

Snell's attack and Farley's defense were purely political and not

The truth as usual lies about midway between. Some of the best Roosevelt strategists believe Farley made a mistake in answering Snell. It put him in the position of accepting the republican issue. They believe it would have been better to ignore the attack.

NOTES This Farley system of long-range political planning is an artistic development far beyond the hit-and-miss schemes prevailing here in the past. . . . Most of the 70 contestable congressional districts are in the middle west. Only two or three are in the south. . . . It is far too early for any political prophecies on the next election. All will depend on the outcome of economic rehabilitation measures the administration is now pressing. Statistically the democrats could lose all 70 of the hot seats and still control the house, 240 to 187.

The ex-Republican Ickes is playing far closer to Farley on patronage matters than you would imagine. . . . Very close relations have been established between them since lckes first jumped off reservation and started making appointments without regard to Farley's wishes, Governor Sprague received a salary at the rate of $40,000 a year from the Bank of England for establishing the managed currency set-up. . . . He left it to work for his own country in the same capacity at $10,000 a year.

When men who spent their youth between plow handles give warning that farming is hard and ill-paid work, they are speaking of the farmer who produces as much as he can and sells it for what he can Their horrible example is a farmer who tills worn-out soil with inadequate machinery and gets up at 4 o'clock in the morning to begin a day of back-breaking labor that continues until merciful darkness brings release.

There are such farmers—more's the pity. But even they have more hours of leisure than any town man who works for wages. Farmers don't work on rainy days, and they take life easy when the crop is "laid by" to ripen for the harvest. Jobless city men, placed on farms to earn their living, would find no insupportable hardship. Their problem would be to grow enough to eat—nothing more. And one acre of good land—a plot smaller than a city block-will produce more than any ordinary family can eat. Charity and the state are not solving the problem of the jobless. They are merely postponing it from one day to another. At the end of a month or three months, the family fed by charity is just where to the role of mendicant. Common sense is scarce in a land where idle men are hungry while soil that would feed them lies idle. Once established on a farm, the destitute family's food problem is

GIRL PLUNGES TO DEATH DURING DANCE ON BOAT

KANSAS CITY, July 4.—(A)—While the orchestra played and many of the 400 passengers were gliding through a sunrise dance, a young woman plunged from the steamer Idlewild today and disappeared in the mucky depths of the Missouri river. A boat was lowered and a futile search made for the missing woman. A man who gave his name as S. M. Sage was quoted by members of the crew as saying he was the escort of the woman but knew her only as "Hermella"

The Stone Mountain Granite Cutters' Strike

A few weeks ago a number of granite cutters in our employ quit their work and went out on what may be termed a "strike." Call it a strike or what you will, it is manifest that the action of these employees was without justification and most ill-advised. They had made no demand which had been refused. They had expressed no dissatisfaction with either wage-scale or working conditions. They gave no reason for abandoning their work, although we have since been informed that the "strike" was called solely in an attempt to force us to operate a "union shop" employing only granite cutters who are members of the Granite Cutters International Association.

For a number of years the Stone Mountain Granite Corporation has operated under the American, or Open Shop Plan, and we shall continue to operate under that plan. However, we have no quarrel with organized labor. We have no objection to our employees organizing or affiliating with any labor organization they wish. We recognize their right to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and we will always meet any demands they make in a spirit of fairness and co-operation. BUT WE SHALL CONTINUE TO EMPLOY NON-UNION AND UNION WORKERS ALIKE!

The Stone Mountain Granite Corporation is a DeKalb County institution. All of our interests are centered in our plant at Stone Mountain, and it is our desire to give employment to as many people in that community as possible.

We Are Not Going to Import Workers From Other Communities and Thereby Add to the Local Unemployment If We Can Avoid Doing So.

For that reason, despite the fact these employees abandoned their work without warning and without giving any reason for doing so, we refused to fill their places without first giving them an opportunity to return to their jobs. Each was notified that we would resume operations on June 28th, and that he was at liberty to return to work as though he had never left our employ.

A number of these men did return to their work and we are informed that many others desired to do so but were deterred by threats and intimidation.

This Is No Time for Any Man to Be Deprived of His Means of Livelihood!

Every man has the right to work for whom and under such conditions as he pleases. He is protected in this right by the laws of

"If any person or persons, by threats, violence, intimidation, or other unlawful means, shall prevent or ATTEMPT TO PREVENT any person or persons in this State from engaging in, remaining in, or performing the business, labor or duties of any lawful employment or occupation, such offender or offenders shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

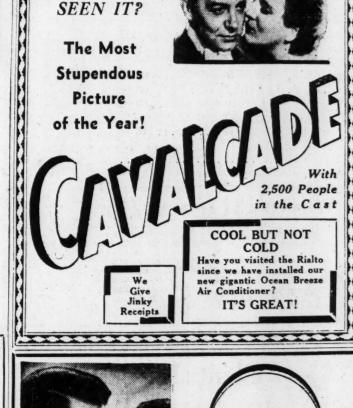

Section 126 Georgia Penal Code.

It is our purpose to do everything in our power to protect our employees and any who may desire to enter or re-enter our employ. To this end we have already secured an injunction from the Superior Court of DeKalb County which will protect them from threats, intimidation, insults and violence.

NO MAN NEED FEAR TO PURSUE HIS LAWFUL EMPLOYMENT!

If ever there was a time calling for co-operation between employee and employer it is now. President Roosevelt has inaugurated a program which is bound to bring about a recovery of industry. Even now the Stone Mountain Granite Corporation, along with other granite manufacturers throughout the country, is at work preparing a Code of Fair Practice to be approved by the President under the National Industrial Recovery Act, which will tend to increase wages, establish maximum hours of labor and better working conditions generally. It is the particular distribution of every employer, and every worker to unite in their generally. It is the patriotic duty of every employer and every worker to unite in their efforts to make a success of the President's plans, AND IN THIS SPIRIT WE HAVE ALREADY PUT INTO EFFECT THE INCREASED MINIMUM WAGE-SCALE WHICH IS TO BE RECOMMENDED FOR THE GRANITE MANUFACTURERS' CODE OF FAIR PRACTICE.

pay rolls and hundreds more face imnent dismissal.

This was shown today in a survey of the departments which so far have completed their retrenchment plans. Just what the final total will be no ne would estimate.

The largest reductions in personnel have been made by the prohibition bureau, which let out 1,300 dry agents, and the treasury, which dismissed 1,500 enlisted men and 150 warrant officers of the coast guard. Salaries of all employes, high and low, have been cut 15 per cent and indications are that this reduction will be continued until January 1 at

These are some of the personnel reductions made so far: State department, 395; justice (including prohibition bureau) 1,635; treasury, 2,950; commerce, 626; interior, 97; navy, 600; agriculture,

Dismissal plans of the postoffice, agriculture and commerce departments are not complete. Approximately 300 workers in the bureau of agricultural economics have been given an indefinite furlough.

The interstate commerce commission has given a 90-day furlough to 613 employes. The navy also is considering whether to dismiss 4,700

Every effort is being made by the war department to retain its entire personnel through the application of a rotative furlough system. The labor department has let only four go, but many others probably will go when the naturalization of the system of th

FRIENDLY COUNSEL'
BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Maybe you can help me solve a very delicate problem that I couldn't bring myself to discuss with my closest friend. Have you ever heard of a fine, upstanding husband who shows a decided weakness for familiarities with young girls. May husband occupies a prominent position in his community, is supposed to be an example to the young people, yet he can't keep his hands off the girls. Many times I have been embarrassed to tears by his silliness but have to keep a stiff upper lip. It has been our custom to employ a young woman to stay with the children in the evening when we wanted to leave home. He had en encounter with her that made it necessary for me to speak to him. I was as tactful as I knew how to be, pointing out to him what an awful chance he took with his reputation as a nublic man by giving the condition of cowardice, and of depravity; and these traits are intorn, ingrained and difficult to readicate.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD. to him. I was as tactul as I knew how to be, pointing out to him what an awful chance he took with his reputation as a pubic man by giving this girl an opportunity to gossip about him. I also told him that it was costing him something precious in the loss of my respect for him. He agreed with me and said we had bet-ter not have her back again. Miss Lillian Reisman, who was re-cently elected president of the Atlan-ta unit, Junior Hadassah, and who will guide the destiny of the organ-ization during the coming year.— Photo by the Little Studio.

But the problem is not solved as I had hoped it would be. The next victim is my young sister, now at college. I dare not speak to him again for fear he will think me a nagging wife. I am not a nagger; but I confess I am completely out of patience with this weakness. I am not the jealous type, and, besides, I recognize that these familiarites have nothing to do with love. I trust my husband to be faithful and I want to be understanding and helpful as his wife. We are considered a happy couple by our friends and family and, with the exception of this matter that causes me concern, we are happy and contented. Perhaps you can shed some light on the sitution. British Nurses Lose Jobs For Wearing Trousers Answer: When a woman marries Answer: when a woman marries a man that has pronounced symptoms of heart trouble she exercises every care to keep the trouble from becoming chronic. After she has done all she can to protect him against his weakness she has to leave the matter LONDON, July 4.—(P)—Two nurses at the Royal Infirmary at Leicester have been asked to resign because they appeared on the streets in flannel trousers.

They were off duty but persisted after being warned such a practice was not in harmony with the dignity of their profession.

The infirmary employs 225 nurses and apparently none of the others is in sympathy with the trouser fad. weakness she has to leave the matter to Providence. So it is that when a woman marries a man that has symp-toms of the disease such as you de-scribe, the most she can do is to keep him out of situations that will tend to aggravate his weakness. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am an orphan living with my sister. I am engaged to a young man 21 years old. My sister has forbidden him to come to the house to see me, not because he is not what he ought to be. At first we planned to meet at a friend's house but later he said he thought we should get married in June and that would settle our problem. I am 19 years old and have always been a good girl, though, in spite of that fact, there has been some ugly gossip about me in the village where I live. What do you think about my getting married?

Answer: I think that marriage would be the best solution of all your problems, provided the man can support you. If he cannot, that is another question. Possibly you can work and together you will be able to finance the marriage. An orphan living with a sister who doesn't allow her fiance to come to the house is in an embarrassing position. Marriage would relieve that condition and it would stop any gossip about you which you claim is unjust. Circumspect conduct will also stop gossip whether you are married or unmarried.

Culbertson on Contract

A Deceptive Play.

BY ELY CULBERTSON. World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Deception in real life is not an ad-Deception in real life is not an admirable trait, but in the miniature world of cards it will, if properly and ethically employed, greatly increase the effectiveness of the player using it. This is particularly true at the Contract Bridge table. Deception can be used to achieve winning results either in the bidding, during the play of the hand as Declarer, or during the play when on the defense. On the hand below an example of a very clever ruse by the Declarer is shown. This play enabled South to get a clear-cut top-score on the board. South, Dealer.

1—Although North has a void suit and two suits without a single high card in them, he fears that a three-diamond call by him at this point would be too much in the nature of a sign-off. Knowing South to be a sound player, he feels fairly certain of some sort of diamond tricks at a nortrump call. He therefore decides to contract immediately for game in no-trump rather than take the chance that South will pass to a three-diamond call.

in no-trump rather than take the chance that South will pass to a three-diamond call.

West's opening lead was the club 4. A heart was discarded from Dummy and East quite properly played the 9. South, even before playing from Dummy on this trick, immediately took stock. He saw that with the club Opening he was sure of 3 club tricks and that if the diamond finesse worked and the suit broke, he would have the nine tricks necessary to fulfill his contract without even letting his opponents in. He also knew that a great many other players would reach a contract of three not trump on this hand and that a good master of them would, in addition to trying to set up the diamonds, try to win some heart tricks however necessitated allowing the opponents in at least once, even assuming that the diamond finesse would work. South further knew that if he won the first club trick with the Knave, either East or West, upon getting in with the Ace of hearts, would realize that a or West, upon getting in with the Ace of hearts, would realize that a club continuation was hopeless and that the only hope of defeating the contract was to shift to spades. South, contract was to shift to spades. South, aware that he was wide open in this latter suit. knew a shift would be fatal to his interests.

South, therefore, decided to take drastic measures to make sure that the opponents would not shift. On the Opening club he discarded the heart from Dummy and immediately topped East's 9 with the Ace in his own hand. This play turned out even more successfully than he had hoped. West was the player who held the Ace of hearts and after winning the first round of hearts with this card, immediately continued with another low club. South, in relating the hand to me afterwards, said that he almost repeated his falsecard on the second round of clubs as, in case the diamond finesse was wrong, he wanted a third words. round of clubs as, in case the diamond finesse was wrong, he wanted a third round of clubs to be played rather than the spade shift. A little thought, however, showed him that this policy would not be a wise one as this time East and West were pretty sure to wake up. He therefore won this second round of clubs with the Knave in his own hand, and a look of great astonishment came over poor West's face.

There is nothing to the rest of the play. The diamond finesse worked fortunately for South, I must admit, and the heart suit broke. Thus, Declarer was able to take the rest of the tricks, making six-odd, for an absolute top-score on the board.

Opportunities for plays of this sort come up very rarely, but when they do, one must be alert and be prepared to take advantage of them. It takes a pretty far-sighted defensive player.

NANCY PAGE

Peter Page Is Growing Up—He Is Five Years Old. BY FLORENCE La GANKE.

Peter Page Junior was growing up. He was getting ready to celebrate his fifth birthday. Nancy felt he was old enough now to have rather definite ideas. So she asked him what he would like for his birthday.

She held her breath while she wait-

She held her breath while she waited for his answer.

"Gee. mom, you mean I can have anything I want? Well, then, I choose a new bathing suit like dad's. I've always had to wear one which Joan is too big to wear. I'd like one of my own. And then," Nancy stopped breathing again, "could I have a party? Not a girl's party with silly clothes and Sunday manners but a swimming party with silly clothes and Sunday manners but a swimming party with some of the kids and Joan."

Nancy was too relieved to correct him for his use of "kids." Ordinarily that word was taboo. She even smiled at his statement that parties called for Sunday manners.

Your grandfather always used to give presents on his birthday. He said he was glad to be alive with folks he liked around him." Nancy's eyes grew misty as she remembered the way in which her father had always celebrated his birthday. But Peter's whoops of joy left no time for reminiscing. Down town they went and came back with a red bathing suit for Peter and a white one for Joan. And a happy time was had by all on Peter's fifth birthday.

Berger and Cantwell Star as Tribe Wins, 3-0 and 8-5.

BOSTON, July 4.-(P)-The Boston Braves twice scalped the leagueleading New York Giants today, 3 to 0, and 8 to 5, in a double-header featured by the hitting of Wally Berger

GEORGIA STATE LEAGUE. and the pitching of Ben Cantwell. The defeats cost the Giants a full game lead in the league race as the St. Louis Cardinals broke even in two games with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Ben Cantwell hung up his 11th victory against three defeats in the opener and was never in trouble in shutting out the New York club.

A double by Berger in the first and a triple in the sixth accounted for the Boston scores. Fred Fitzsimmons. who allowed but six hits, was charged with the loss.

Three Boston and two New York pitchers toiled in the nightcap. Fred Frankhouse, who started for Boston, but who was shelled from the mound in the sixth, received credit for the victory. He was followed by Betts and baseball fans who went out to Ponce by Brandt, the latter doing a fine job relief hurling.

Herman Bell started for the Giants.
He lasted the greater part of four innings before turning the burden over to Uhle. Bell was the losing pitcher.
Berger and Jordan, with three blows each, led the 13-hit attack of the tribe. Hogan, former Giant catcher, made two hits, one single accounting for two runs. A holiday crowd of 20-000 witnessed the twin bill.

Nashville Vols, who have won exactly 10 of the 12 games played with Atlanta this year.

After Jackie Reid, the "little points on" of the Vol staff, had completely baffled the Crackers with his serew ball Monday night, the fans apparently thought that they would rise up on the Fourth and take at least one of the games with the pesky Tennesseeans. CRACKERS DROP Brillheart Gives Atlanta But Two Hits in Last Game.

By Jimmy Jones.

The so-called Roarin' Fourth was complete washout to some 4,500 de Leon park yesterday to see the Crackers drop a double-header to the Nashville Vols, who have won exactly 10 of the 12 games played with At-

of the games with the pesky Tennes-seeans. But the Cracker batting continued to appear purile against Byron Speece and John Benson Brill-heart as they dropped both games, the first by 7 to 3 and the second, CLEAN SERIES.

Thus Nashville swept the series and departed on an early night train, not to return until September 8, which is entirely too soon at that.

Andy Messenger might have had a chance against the underhanded Speece in the first game, but for some weird playing of the Cracker outfield, which never seems to be in the right position on the hitters. Freddie Sington did an Alphonse-Gaston on Stanley Keyes' fly to left in the second inning which he should have stuck in his hip pocket, but misjudged the ball and then fell down, allowing it to go over his head for a triple, scoring Lance Richbourg, who had singled. Richbourg scored when Dashiell bobbled Dueker's comparatively easy roller at second. That got Messenger in a hole and his cause was not helped any in the third when, after retiring Frye, Prather, Richbourg and Keyes singled successively, Prather scoring and then Neisler allowed Richbourg and Keyes to pull off the most palpable of double steals, Richbourg scoring.

That put Messenger four runs in

That put Messenger four runs in the hole and he finally retired in dis-gust in the fifth after walking Keyes, Butcher, and Meadows finished up.

Dent On Killing Golden Goose

Bent On Killing Golden Goose

It was just a few days ago that Charley Moore, the suspended manager of the Atlanta Crackers, received a letter from John D. Martin, president of the Sostalium, advising him the relation of the Southern Association, advising him that he had written an article for the Baseball Magazine entitled:

"KILL THE UMPIRE!"

The letter was one of many sent to the president's friends, he being a short story writer of more than passing success. Charley Moore, a few days later, objected from he bench to an umpire's decision.

AND WAS INDEFINITELY SUSPENDED BY THE MAN WHO ADVISED HIM TO READ AN ARTICLE ENTITLED "KILL THE UMPIRE."

Which is just one of life's little ironies.

SPORTSMANSHIP? WELL, HARDLY.

The report from John D. Martin, in which Moore was suspended, mentioned something about sportsmanship in verbat attacks on umpires.

This reads well but it occurs to me that some of our most over-worked phrases are "sportsmanship" and "good, clean sport." Because they are usually used to fit one's own ideas of sportsmanship and good clean sport.

An umpire should be the last one to mention sportsman-Because he is so surrounded by rules and protected by legislation that an opponent has no chance.

If one strikes an umpire he may be ruled out of baseball for a year. Umpires know that. And it isn't unusual to see an umpire trying to anger a player or manager so that he will take a punch at the sacred person of the umpire.

And what happens if an umpire puts the slug on a player? Nothing at all-if he angers the player or manager into striking first. Because he is then "protecting himself" and says so in his report, no matter how enthusiastically he may have swung his mask and fists.

If one speaks harshly to an umpire or questions his decision he is fined and ejected from the park. The player or manager has no protection at all. He has

o rights. The umpire's word is final. Hence to learn that an umpire is mentioning sportsmanship in his report of a player's conduct is rather irritating. It is ridiculous and absurd. It is rather obvious that the umpires have passed the word that Charley Moore, the Atlanta manager, doesn't handshake and back slap them enough. So they will put him in the stands as often as possible. In long years of reporting baseball, this is the first time this reporter recalls having criticized umpires. But when an umpire, protected by all the rules and given the rights of an absolute dictator, mentions "sportsmanship" as he suspends a man-pals, it is something to become indignant about.

Or is it? Perhaps it isn't important at all. The umpires seem determined to do all they can to detract from the interest manship and good, clean sport. -

So let's forget all about it. What we need is more sports-

LET'S LIVEN UP THE BALL.

Bill Terry's Giants permitted only four hits in something like 54 innings. Yet the crowds stayed away in a very enthusiastic fashion.

When Carl Hubbell pitched his 1-to-0 game the crowd was small. The Giants are playing marvelous baseball. Their pitchers are giving exhibitions which rival any in past baseball history—the era for which the fans were supposed to long with a longing poignant and enduring. The games were all tight ones with few

The Yankees, with Ruth, Gehrig and their mates belting the baseball around and about and over the fences, are pack-

The answer seems to be in the baseball. The National league ball is not as lively as the one in the American circuit.

THE OLD FAN PASSES.

The old fan, who liked his baseball games to be 1-to-0 and 2-to-1 affairs with the hits limited to about three or four for each club, seems to be passing on. The new fan likes his home runs in great quantities.

The niceties of base running, which has become a lost art, mean nothing. The so-called inside baseball, of which there never was a great deal, has been lost in the free-handed hitting. The squeeze play and the bunt are infrequently used. The big idea is to get the boys on and then let them stand there al until someone knocks them around with triples, home runs or The ladies have probably been overlooked in considering modern day baseball. Only a few of them know that the clean-up hitter isn't a player who has shaved and dressed up for the day. But they go to ball games.

And do they like beautifully pitched games? They do not. They like to see the boys grab the bat by the last inch of the handle and whack the ball over the fence or to distant corners.

They yawn at a game which goes along with no runs. And so it appears that the Old Fan must get a seat off by himself somewhere. And sit there and grumble and long for the good old days when baseball was a game of skill and not a game of brute strength and power.

IT IS EASY TO LIVEN THE BALL.

Manufacturers of baseballs insisted for years that they had done nothing to the ball despite the fact that it went farther and faster than before.

There was never any explanation for this resent-

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland. July 4.

(P)—Thirteen Americans, including the defending champion, stocky Gene Sarazen, and one amateur, George T. Dunlap Jr., of New York, celebrated a sizzling Fourth of July in Scotland today by qualifying for the British open golf championship.

But the fireworks for the occasion were touched off by a smiling Dublin Irishman, Pat Nolan, who came steaming in over the old course to shoot the final 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying trials in just 67 strokes, shattering all the centuries of St. Andrews records and giving him the medal with a total of 71-67—138.

wild pitch by Russell Van Atta, however, was responsible for what proved to be the winning run, scored in the eighth.

In the opening contest, the Senators came from behind to tie the score with two runs in the ninth and then put over the winning tally in the tenth.

For the third time this season, Lefty Gomez failed to finish a game against the Senators. He contributed three wild pitches to his downfall, while Tony Lazzeri made two costly errors.

Manager Joe Cronin sent Heinie Manush in with the winning run, following the latter's double with a single for his third hit of the game. Dixie Walker and Frank Crosetti drove Earl Whitehill from the mound in the second inning but the Yanks could do little with Alvin Crowder and Jack Russell, who received credit for the victory.

American Women Advance to Semi-Finals and Rest Today.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4. (P)—An All-American final in the women's singles, featuring two rivals of many years from Berkeley, Cal. Helen Jacobs and Helen Wills Moody. loomed tonight after a day in which the feminine contingent held the cen-ter of the stage in the annual Wimble-don tennis championship play.

Mrs. Moody already qualified for the semi-finals, Miss Jacobs won her way into the same round today by defeating the best of the continental players, Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France, 6-1, 1-6, 6-2. Mrs. Moody heads the upper braket, Miss Jacobs the lower.

the lower.

Their rivals in the next round were decided as Fraulein H. Krahwinkel, tall, powerful German girl, eliminated Miss Margaret Scriven, of England, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, while Miss Dorothy Round, another English girl, bested Lucia Valerio, of Italy, 6-3, 6-2.

Through luck of the draw Mrs. Moody, an overwhelming favorite to win her sixth Wimbledon singles crown, faces the stronger of the two, Fraulein Krahwinkel, while Miss Jacobs meets Miss Round, who is considered capable of giving her little more than a hard workout.

FINEST TENNIS.

Miss Jacobs played the finest tennis she ever has shown in England to eliminate the top ranking Frenchwoman. Her service was strong and under perfect control and she came confidently to the net to smash away point after point. For a time she seemed a bit uncertain in the second set, but her touch returned and she set, but her touch returned and she was volleying splendidly, all her ground strokes in fine order, and she raced through Mme. Mathieu for the last set and victory.

Tomorrow the women relinquish the famed center courts while the leading singles players of four nations—Ellsworth Vines, of the United States; Henri Cochet, of France; Jack Crawford, of Australia, and Jiro Satoh, of Japan—battle through the semi-final round of the men's singles.

The best strokes Helen had were slices off high-bounding balls on her forehand and her serve. Her weakest department was her playing high bounces on her forehand and her method of play was to hit the ball from one corner to the other and then chop low balls to her opponent's back hand, which made the return come up.

Five players tied with 86's and must engage in a play-off to decide the thirty-second place. Hughes muffed his chance to tie Beverly on the 18th. He needed a birdle but instead took one over par on the hole. He drove into the woods and put his third into a trap near the green.

Instead of hitting outright for points, Helen would wait for her opponent's errors. She was steadier and played her best tennis in the third set. A GREAT FUTURE.

Bobby came to Atlanta Monday as a full fledged professional ball player and rather proud of it. Stocks Make Wide Upturns During First Half of Year

An appreciation of around $16,000.000,000 in quoted values of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange over a four-month period measured the transformation wrought by the government's program of price lifting and the sweeping business recovery.

With characteristic readiness to discount the future and to change its mind overnight. Wall Street swung abruptly from bear market psychology to such enthusiasms as attend a bull market cycle. The turning point, of course, came after the banking holiday when it appeared that the new government had inflationary ideas and that Washington's "new deal" was to have evry practical manifestations.

Moving up first on the theory that the country was to have a liberal dose of inflation, the market later was prompted to further gains by the boom in industry, and trading became very heavy.

January saw irregular price movements in a very narrow range and light volume. In February the market, alarmed by the banking holidays declared by various states and localities, drifted lower, losing some eight points in that month. With March came the national banking moratorium and the closing of the stock exchange from March 4 to 15. On the latter day there was a big rally, but the market later subsided into dullness.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(P)—Bonds generally failed to confirm the inflationary aspects of markets during the first half of 1933 and the improvement in trade apparently was the most important factor in the substantial unitary of senior security prices. For so short a time, the advance was the largest on record. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics composite of 90 issues appreciated almost exactly 100 per cent from late February to late June. The low for the year in this average was 43.9, made February 27; the high of 1933's first half was 87.2 on June 27, since which date there has been a further rise. The market closed the first half year at the highest level since the fall of 1931.

1926, or even to around $2 a bushel, the record in 1925. Similarly, corn has risen in six months from 25 cents a bushel to a range varying between 56 1-2 and 71 cents, with oats upfrom 16 cents to around 58 to 55 1-2 cents.

Paralleling the upward movement of grain prices, the hog market here has gained a season's low of $3.10 to $5.50, paid for the best weighty butchers, cattle, from $4.25 to $7.65 on prime weighty steers, and sheep from $5.50 to $8 on choice native lambs. June was better than May and July is expected to beat June.

Higher price levels, and greater industrial and commercial activity, and it is my confident belief that rising grain and live stock prices drew us into this new movement."

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN. CHICAGO, July 4.—(P)—How high grain prices may go, in the light of domestir and world conditions, is simply a matter of conjecture. Associated Gas and Electric Company

Plan of Rearrangement of Debt Capitalization

Is the Plan Necessary?

ROMWELL cautioned his men: "Trust in God, and keep your powder dry." The Associated Gas and Electric Company hopes that present upward trends in business point to a new and prosperous era. But this hope does not blind it to the fact that its taxes are increasing alarmingly, that its rates are being reduced, and that business is still subnormal.

Since the Plan was announced on May 15, 1933, the Federal 3% tax on domestic and commercial sales of electricity has been transferred from consumers to the companies, imposing an additional expense on Assoclated operating companies of about $1,100,000 a year. Congress has also imposed a new tax on the value of capital stock of corporations which, it is estimated, will cost companies in the Associated System more than $1,000,000 annually.

Is is doubtful that Public Service Commissions will allow rate increases to offset these additional taxes. On the contrary, commissions and municipalities in New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and other states where Associated companies operate, are demanding further reductions. The New York Public Service Commission has just issued an order, to be effective next September 1, reducing drastically the rates of the New York State Electric & Gas Corporation, one of the principal Associated operating properties. This order requires a reduction in the Corporation's revenues of $600,000 yearly.

$3,500,000 Less for Interest

The total of actual and potential increases in taxes and reductions in rates is likely to reach $3,500,000.

Consolidated net earnings of the Associated Gas and Electric Company and subsidiaries, after depreciation and after all charges of subsidiaries, for the 12 months ended March 31, 1933, were only a $2,413,749 margin over fixed interest requirements of debentures for that period. For the 12 months ended May 31, 1933, this margin was only $584,517, after deducting accruals ($1,000,-000) for the proportionate amount of the estimated Federal capital stock tax for the period from July 1, 1932 to May 31, 1933. Additional taxes and rate reductions may easily wipe out such a slender margin of earnings, unless business improves substantially.

The situation of public utilities is aggravated by the lack of a ready market for bonds and by the hesitation of banks to assist in providing funds to meet maturing indebtedness without requiring heavy sinking fund payments. Such payments are so burdensome as to prevent some subsidiary companies from paying the cash dividends which holding companies need to meet interest charges.

Improvement in Associated electric output in recent weeks is encouraging. This improvement, however, has not yet produced a corresponding improvement in earnings, because the increase has come almost wholly from industrial users who pay much lower rates than residential

It is the purpose of the Plan to change the situation with respect to the interest charges of Associated Gas and Electric Company so that they will be largely on an income basis instead of a fixed basis, and that in the event of temporary inability to meet full interest charges, defaults would not occur which might lead to a receivership, with its attendant expenses and risks.

This event may not occur, but it is the part of business prudence to guard against it as fully as it is the part of business prudence to insure against fire. As insurance against the risk of such an event, if for no other reason, the Management believes that the Plan is necessary.

Atlanta Wins Bowling Match

The Atlanta Grinding Company team, of the local City Ten Pin league, breezed easily through a five-game ten pin match with the Phoenix All Stars, of Birmingham, Ala. and finished with the long end of a 4.352 to 4.167 count, winning by 185 pins. Tony Althausen starred for the local team, and Derzis, Rickles and Thompson bolstered the totals of the invaders. Ellis, one of the heavy hitters from Birmingham, was considerably off his usual good game.

Sam Williams, genial manager of the Phoenix team, during the match play at the local alleys, made arrangements that will assure entry of two teams from the Alabama city for the big Dixie Ten Pin league that will swing into action in the early fall with teams from the largest southern cities represented.

INSTALLMENT I.

The footlights dimmed to an entrancing amber. A hush of expectancy fell over the big theater. Mary sat on the edge of her seat and gripped her little hands tightly together. The orchestra played softly—enchantingly, from "The Pink Lady." "To you, beautiful lady, I raise my eyes. . . "Parade of the Manishis" was on. Mary's first fashion show. She started to clap her hands with joy. Then, remembering where she was, she sat back with a discreet little sigh and smiled happily to her leaded stranger, was really one of "Don't let me wake up! Please don't! I've touched—really touched, a beautiful girl who comes to Holly-wood and admits she isn't the world's greatest actress. Now I can die. I've seen everything. Good-bye—cruel world!"

Mary's laugh was a little uncertain. Was Freckle gulped and did a perfect imimeans her smallest accomplishment. Siefly while she babled on.

"Sure! I wasn't kidding when I said I knew that platinum blonde model with the silver wrap. Her name's Sara Colt. She's only an extra girl—in pictures. And so are almost all those babies. If they're not in luck to get a whole week's steady work out of this show! They'll eat the round freckled face grumming so wholesomely at her and decided it could hide no malice.

Mary was dying with curiosity, lespite her peeve. This girl, this redicted it could hide no malice. "Don't peeple ever come out to "Honey chile, I sho can tell you all hails from somewheah below the Mason-Dixon line. Yas sub!"

The stranger's gross exaggeration of Mary's southern drawl sent a hot flush of resentment to her face. She turned coldly and gave all her attention to the models on the stage. But the red-head didn't seem to notice she was being squelched.

Having been given an inch conversationally, she meant to take the with a shade of embarrassment.

Mary was a splendid audience. She she laughed again.

"You're-Oh, ear! I just can't think of your name and seven was glowing with a thrilled, happy look of childish wonder. The girl gazed in amusement at her enthusiasm before she laughed with a shade of embarrassment.

"Oh, yeah—I've been in a couple of pictures. But don't feel too badly about not remembering my name. Because it's never been billed."

Suddenly Mary remembered.

"I know! It was last week. You sang that funny song, "I'll Be Goin' Now," in 'Addle Along, Addie."

"Oh. my deah public," Freckle fluttered her eyelashes and looked coy. "What is this secret of my huge social success?"

And to little Mary the girls grew more and more beautiful—the gowns more and more beautiful—the gowns more and more gorgeous, until by the time the tall, pencil-sleader platinum blonde came on in the silver evening wrap trimmed with fur her breath was almost gone.

She just had to have the silver with the properties of the charmed circle that went to make up the glamorous little bit of the Mary asked then.

The red-head turned flashing large teeth in a friendly grin.

"Don't bet your mad money on it, sister, or you'll walk hone. I've seen her with her pan laid up for repairs—and her hair off."

"Y-you've what?"

There was complete mystification in Mary's voice. The red-head caught it—and peered closely at her in the half light. Her grin grew still wider as Mary stared innocently back at her. Then she giggled:

"Take it you're a stranger in these here now wooly wildish hitherlands known as Hollywood?"

"Yes, I am," Mary forced a shaky laugh. "Can you tell I don't belong here—even in the dark?"

"Now that we've been properly introduced—" Freckle began with another giggle, which Mary decided was really more like an infectious laugh—"How are all the folks down on the ole plantation? How's mah ole mammy?"

Freckle was thinking the same thing. But back in her mind was another idea. Here was the girl from out-of-town evidently with a good grub stake; it was good to hook up with someone with a bank roll.

Rent days came around so fast. And she was completely broke so oft-en. Perhaps she could show Mary the representation of the control of the con

Robert H. Lamkin, who begins his second year as pastor of the church. A special musical program is being prepared for the morning service. Song services in the afternoon will be in charge of the Rev. A. C. Hendley, pastor of Woodland Hills Baptist church. Further activity of the special citizens' committee, which found gross irregulatities in the Fulton county government, hinged today on whether the July-August grand jury empowers the committee of five to continue its inquiry.

Upon being sworn in Monday, the new grand jury took under consideration requests that the citizens' committee be reappointed. A decision was withheld. The jury, with C. P. Vaughn, former mayor of Roswell, foreman, and Herman Yancey, assistant publicity director of the Southern railway, secretary, will meet Friday. Burglars raided the grocery store of J. H. Walter B. Stewart, formerly a member of the county commission, who was named in the citizens' committee's report, issued a statement in which he said that as chairman of the public works committee in 1929, "the only road I paved in all Fulton county was one through the property of Robert P. McLarty,"

Mr. McLarty, a member of the citizen's committee, promptly replied that Stewart's statement was a "smoke screen." The road Stewart referred to the North Ccheshire bridge road. McLarty said, "was not paved until the 11 civic improvement clubs in the northeast section of the county adopted it as their major project and appeared before the county commissioners, and asked that it be paved.
